

Foursite

The VIVO Building

This award winning Class A office building opened for business in The Cotton Center in February of 2008 and is home to Foursite's' corporate office. The building features a cyber café and lounge, fitness center, a meditation and massage room, second story balcony with barbeque, and shared conference room with smart displays and video conferencing capabilities. By integrating work, fitness and social interaction, occupants are rejuvenated and elevated to a new level of corporate brand awareness. Thoughtful details throughout the building like waterless plumbing features, low-e glass, automated window coverings, and automated lighting and temperature controls, add to the sustainable qualities of the building.

Foursite provided all due diligence and project management associated with the development of The VIVO Building.
